

Brintons' involvement in the recent renovation of the elegant Hydro Hotel, a historic 81-room hotel that overlooks Lake Windermere in the Lake District, proves that trend-leading carpet design and fast delivery times need not be mutually exclusive.

Led by interior design practice Not A Box, this stately hotel has undergone a major refurbishment to transform it into a premier destination for discerning leisure and business travellers seeking luxurious contemporary style and sophistication with modern comforts in the Lake District.

As with the majority of hospitality refurbishment projects, the project team was required to work to tight deadlines, with no option of over-run, to deliver a complete high quality refurbishment on time with minimal disruption to the hotel's business. For this reason, Not A Box chose to collaborate with leading carpet supplier Brintons whose QuickWeave™ collection of high quality Axminster woven carpets can be delivered in only six weeks.

I love experimenting with new concepts and surface patterns and with such a trusted reputation, Brintons was always going to be my first choice for the refurbishment of the Hydro. Their expertise is invaluable to the designer wanting to create something unique – with tight deadlines. My favourite carpet is the bar area. It takes the humble thistle to new heights with its oversized design and pared back colour palette. The range of contemporary patterns in Brintons QuickWeave collection is vast so there's no need to compromise on design in the name of speed. The result is beautiful, quality carpets throughout the hotel, delivered within a very tight deadline.

Heather Bennani

Managing Director and Lead Designer, Not A Box

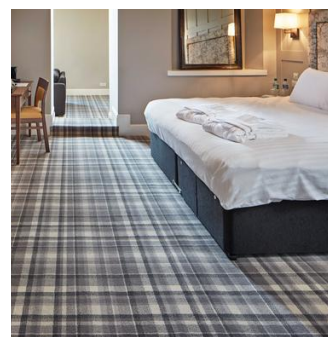

QuickWeave™ is an award-winning collection of contemporary patterns including plaids, stripes and abstract layered designs. The range has been developed to work within contemporary design-led schemes including 'boutique-style' formats across leisure and hospitality projects. Clever texturing techniques including mottles, striés and fades have been used within the patterns to give depth to the designs whilst optimising practical application – and a broad spectrum of colours is available.

Brintons carpets are seen throughout the renovation of the Hydro Hotel, including in the guestrooms, corridors, ballroom and restaurant. The designs throughout the hotel vary, so each fitted carpet suits the specific finished space accordingly.

Brintons' in-house design team worked closely with Not A Box MD Heather Bennani to select and specify demure tartans, neo-classical geometric patterns and a thistle-based abstract design, all in cool, contemporary palettes to reflect the fresh neutral tones of the scheme as a whole.
