Project: Puerto Rico Convention Center

Details: 20,600 SY Axminster

Brintons joins forces with TVS Design to produce and manufacture 20,600 square yards of custom woven Axminster carpet for the impressive Puerto Rico Convention Center.

To pull the space together, the Puerto Rico Convention Center desired a carpet that was reflective of the Puerto Rican culture with vibrant hues and waves that not only resemble the ocean, but link to the architecture's exterior:

"Their response to the deliverables is always professional and done in a timely manner – making every effort to make my job easier."

"We've been in the hospitality carpet business since 1966 and have collaborated with Brintons since the late 80s. When this massive project came along, we know our tried-and-tested installation team would be challenged to their core. The breadth, scope and complexity of the design coupled with logistical installation hurdles, demanded a level of attention to detail that stretched our skill set.

In the end, the hard work paid off. Thanks to Brintons' superb sales team and the invaluable technical support of their knowledgeable project managers, we completed our most spectacular project to date!"
